

Classics AAU Basketball Club

Information for Parents and Players

September, 2009

Classics Basketball is a registered, 501(c)3 non-profit corporation which has been promoting select AAU basketball in the Washington, D.C. area since 1981. It is an all-volunteer organization with a volunteer president and board of directors/operating committee and holds an annual meeting which is open to all members plus monthly and quarterly board/operating committee meetings. Classics Basketball is a member of the Potomac Valley Amateur Athletic Union (PVAAU) District, and the national Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) which has supported a variety of amateur sports since 1875. Classics Basketball provides opportunities for higher level sports programs for its members who are young athletes, ages 7-18, and promotes opportunities for our area youth to develop and grow their character, leadership, mental and physical fitness capabilities.

As a member of the Potomac Valley Athletic Amateur Union (PVAAU), we subscribe to the mission and vision of the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU): “To offer amateur sports programs through a volunteer base for all people to have the physical, mental, and moral development of amateur athletes and to promote good sportsmanship and good citizenship. To offer amateur athletes volunteer opportunities to develop to their highest level through a national and local network of sporting events. Through participation in AAU, we achieve our dreams as athletes and as valued citizens of our communities.”

Classics Basketball supports up to two to three girls and boys teams in each age group (7U to Senior for boys and 8u to Open for girls) starting with seven/eight year olds and going through high school, up to age 18 (For official AAU age group definitions, please see www.aagirlsbasketball.org or www.aaboysbasketball.org). Teams are formed or assessed mainly two times a year – in early September with player evaluations or tryouts for the Fall-Winter season and in early March at tryouts for the Spring-Summer AAU season.

The current (as of September, 2009) age determination dates (ADDs) are different for boys and girls basketball. For girls, the year of birth is the ADD but girls born the year before and in the appropriate grade as of January 1, 2010 can play in the age group. For boys, the ADD is September 1, 2010, plus a possible grade exception for boys born up to one year earlier but in the appropriate grade as of March 1, 2010. The rule of thumb for boys is age on September 1, 2010 and grade on March 1, 2010 but if a year older in age on September 1, 2010, but in the same grade as most players that are an age year younger on that date. Age group determination calculator links are available on the Classics website – www.classicsbb.com.

By joining the AAU through the Classics Basketball AAU club, individual players and teams are provided with insurance coverage for practices and games and are eligible to play in the PVAAU Spring Regional tournament, usually in April/May, which qualifies teams for the AAU National Championship tournaments in June/July. Classics Basketball maintains a website to provide players and families with important information about our team program and expectations, clinics, tournaments, leagues and tryouts at www.classicsbasketball.com. Please visit it often to keep current on happenings in the club, performance of our teams, and the AAU basketball world

About TRYOUTS:

Classics Basketball holds tryouts twice a year, in the Spring and Fall, and players already on teams must try out each time. There is NO guarantee that a player on a team would make the team at the next season's tryouts. However, players participating on a Classics or other AAU club team in general would have an advantage over most others due to the practices and competitions each team participates in. In general, about 90% of returning players are likely to make a team, but there is NO GUARANTEE. At the end of each season and before the next season's tryouts, each team head coach will generally provide each team member a "report card" or feedback with suggestions for improvements and reminders to "bring their A game" to tryouts. Tryouts for each age group are run by the "A" or "National"* team coach and include drills in ball-handling, shooting, defense, running as well as scrimmages.

The players' skills, effort, behavior, and attitude are important factors that coaches consider in making their selections for the team. Existing team coaches hold the tryouts for their age group and if enough players qualify, a new team may be formed at the tryouts. The "A" or "National"* team is the most competitive team in each age group. The "B" team is the second team in each age group, and some birth years depending on tryout turnout may have "C" team. The "A" team is selected first, then the "B" team and then the C team. The "A" team coach gets first choice among all the players at tryouts to fill the "A" team. The "B" team coach gets second choice, and so on until all coaches have chosen their teams. It is rare to have the quality and numbers of players at a tryouts to support a third team. For players who do not make a Classics Basketball team at tryouts, we hold a Friday Night Clinic program in the Fall, Winter, and Spring, where players can continue to develop their skills. Also, we suggest players on our teams or wishing to improve consider improving their individual skills outside of team practices by individual workouts with our coaches or participating in a separate training program such as those conducted by Ball Skills Basics.

Classics Basketball teams are for the above-average to exceptional player who will make Classics Basketball's AAU team their highest priority over other sports. If, for reasons of other activity time commitments or geography, a particular player does not wish to be on the "A" team, the player or her parents may ask the "B" coach about openings on the roster, and if that coach is willing, the player can join that team.

*NOTE: Classics Basketball's use of the term "National team" is reserved for teams who have successfully qualified for, and have attended and played in the AAU Division 1 National Championships and placed in the Top 25 nationally, otherwise the most competitive team in an age group is considered the A team. Other organizations who list their teams as "National" teams may not really have a team qualified to use that title properly per Classics Basketball's policy for use of such a description.

About COMMITMENT:

Participation on a Classics Basketball AAU club team demands a big time commitment from coaches, players and their families. In the fall and winter, teams in the 8th grade and younger typically practice once or twice a week for 90 minutes to 2 hours each session. Teams may practice two or three times a week in the Spring in preparation for the PV AAU District tournament to qualify for the AAU Nationals at either the Division 1, 2, or 3 level. Teams may enter other tournaments and/or leagues that are scheduled on the weekends. There are fall leagues and tournaments for all age groups. During the fall and winter, high school age boys and girls are playing on their school teams. Classics Basketball teams with middle school age kids and younger generally play in the Montgomery County Recreation Department Rising Star League, an elite level AAU or High School league such as the Potomac Valley Basketball League (www.pvbl.org), or some other league. The spring season consists of weekend tournaments, jamborees, and games against other teams which lead up to the PVAAU District tournament. The Potomac Valley AAU District Tournaments are in the mid April through mid May time period and the National AAU tournament is in the summer (if the team qualifies at the District or a Super-regional event.) starting in late June for the younger age groups and continuing until late July/early August. Also, our high school age group teams often participate in NCAA sanctioned exposure or showcase events in July each summer. The AAU National tournaments schedule is posted at the AAU website – aagirlsbasketball.org or aaboysbasketball.org ... and throughout the year, there is practice!

We expect for each athlete that family, religious, and school-related events will get the priority, and we request that such events be communicated to the coach(es) and team manager(s) well in advance so that practices, tournaments, etc., can be planned accordingly, given that the team may be missing your child that day.

While we encourage our club members to participate in other sports such as soccer, lacrosse, cross country, track, baseball, etc. to develop their overall athletic abilities and capacity, our AAU program is an elite, higher level, “travel” team program and parents and athletes must really be careful not to be overcommitted to multiple teams, leagues, etc., especially if also trying to play on another higher level sport besides Classics Basketball such as a WAGSL or NCSL soccer club team. Two such sports combined will be taxing on most families both time and money-wise, and will really put added physical and mental stress on the athlete.

While we do not mandate that parents and players NOT do that, we have seen where such demanding higher level youth sports has led to injuries and ultimately youth, who before they even get to high school, give up on sports and healthy lifestyle choices due to the pressures the sports have imposed and the lack of time to have fun as a kid. That said we encourage our youth to play on their middle school sports teams and recreational level programs for other sports. When there is a conflict, our Classics Basketball coaches will expect the Classics Basketball event to get the priority over all other sports-related activities, including attendance at college or professional sports events. Also each Classics team is expected to volunteer to support our participation in the Montgomery County Adopt-A-Road cleanup program for our section of along Randolph Road.

Team Management:

Classics Basketball teams and the club works best when the coach coaches, and parents communicate and take on the administrative responsibilities of the team and if interested at the club level to help run tournaments, leagues, or clinics and with administrative stuff such as maintaining our website and helping with sponsorships and fundraising. At the team level, this includes a team manager(s) and/or treasurer to collect and disburse funds, and others to take the lead for uniforms, equipment, entering tournaments, as well as providing a team accounting report. In addition, help is needed securing practice times at gyms, and setting up the team communication “tree.” Some teams even have established their own team website within the classicsbasketball.com website.

About COSTS:

This section discusses the costs that a player/family may incur as a member of a Classics Basketball AAU club team. With over 30 years of operating experience, Classics Basketball has established standard budgets for each season for A and B teams, and we encourage each team to use these budgets and the events and activities associated with the budget plans. Each player-family will be required to make the financial commitment to support the team’s plans including fundraising events to help offset individual costs. Costs will consist of club dues, AAU membership, uniforms, gym time, tournaments, leagues, coaching expenses, including travel reimbursements, supplies such as first aid items and training equipment.

Dues: Dues for Classics club members are $75 for each season (Fall-Winter and Spring-Summer). AAU registration of players is $14 per year. The Classics dues covers some of the administrative expenses for registering the club with the AAU each year, website hosting and domain registrations, and liability insurance, paying the AAU entry fees for teams that qualify for national championships, trading pins and banners for teams going to nationals, scholarship fund development, replacement AAU basketballs and pinnies for teams (each team is provided by the club with at least 6-10 AAU Rawlings Basketballs and Nike ball bags to hold their team gear), club coach polo shirts for coaches, and other team support items including first aid supplies. Individual team expenses which are divided among the players also include uniforms, gym time, tournament and league fees, coaching expenses for travel and training, first aid supplies beyond the kits the club supplies, outside clinics, additional player and fan gear ordered through the club. Our fee may seem higher than some other AAU organizations because Classics does not sponsor a multitude of fundraising tournaments which its teams are expected to enter and at which their parents are expected to work. Our fee was increased in August, 2008 due to increases in costs after having remained at $50 per season for over 10 years. Also, registered club players are able to drop-in to any Classics run clinics or skill programs at a significantly reduced rate like $5/session for our Friday Night Clinic program.

Uniforms: New team members will need uniforms. The Classics Basketball AAU club team tournament uniform consists of a navy (away) and white (home) uniform set (jersey and shorts – total of four pieces). There are a girls and boys design both of which were designed with input from many of our players. These uniforms are made by a sublimation process and will last a long time if cared for properly. Sublimation means that numbers and graphics are inherent to the fabric and will not fade, tear or peel off like many other uniforms your athlete may have had. Simple care instructions for these uniforms are to wash in cold water with Woolite or some other mild detergent and air/hang dry the set indoors. Because they are a specialized moisture management fabric, they dry very quickly. They should not be put in a heated automatic dryer or dried in direct sunlight. High temperature and excessive UV sunlight exposure will cause the materials to degrade over time. Also, permanent markers and paint will cause stains and should be kept away from the material, but food, dirt and other stains will come out easily because of the yarn design.

Because of the durable design, the uniform set currently (as of Sept 2008) costs $215. We realize that this cost may be a factor in a family's decision to have their athlete(s) play on our teams, and thus we have several options to reduce up front costs and allow for balancing cash flow considerations for our members' families, especially as our athletes grow and require a larger size uniform. All purchase option uniforms will give every owner what we call a trade-up option where Classics will work with players who have outgrown their uniform to find a larger size and simply trade in the uniform that is too small at no additional cost assuming the traded in uniform is in good condition. The details of our uniform purchase/rental options are provided on the Classics Basketball Uniform Purchase/Option Rental Agreement available on our website. Each player/family must fill out and turn in one of these forms with the Classics Basketball uniforms coordinator or the Classics president.

High School Age Group Teams Uniform Option: For our High School age group teams, we encourage them to purchase/rent our AAU tournament uniform designs as a team. For Classics teams that have been together from the early years (7 and 8 year old) through 8th grade (13 and 14 year old) and that then continue to play for Classics in high school, they will have their Classics AAU tournament uniforms to use and/or the option to trade-up in size if needed. However, often our high school teams will have a number of players who join Classics for the first time and may not be able to afford the tournament uniforms. We also realize in the high school years, our teams are focused mainly on the NCAA sanctioned exposure events in July of each year, and each year we can not predict how many teams in these age groups we will have, and whether players from the prior season will return to play for Classics. Therefore, on a case-by-case basis for our high school age group teams for both boys and girls, we can offer these teams a lower cost temporary uniform design that can also be bought or rented for the season. The cost of this uniform set is about $100, and we have a rental option for it as well. These uniforms are not as durable as our AAU tournament team uniforms. They use a screening process for logos and numbers versus sublimation, and will likely not last more than one or two seasons, and would have to be replaced sooner if not cared for properly. Which uniform design our high school teams select will be handled on a team-by-team basis when the teams are formed at the end of tryouts in March, and the players/families given the option as to which uniform design to go with for the team.

Competitions: Individual teams may decide to enter tournaments or leagues which have fees that are shared by each player. Tournament costs vary from about $250-$450 and sometimes an admission fee is charged by the host organization.

Costs for practice gym time and equipment are also shared by the team and hourly rates vary from about $15-$50/hour depending on the gym owner.

The typical individual player assessment is a function of the number of practices the team holds, number of tournaments and leagues entered, clinics and camps, and other events. Coaches volunteer their time and teams also budget funds to cover travel expenses for the coaches. Typical player costs for team players are $500-800 for the fall-winter season and $800-1200 for the spring-summer season depending on participation in AAU National events. These estimates include some travel costs for coaches for the trip to the AAU National tournaments and coaches' expenses for a few out of area tournaments that require an overnight stay. At the end of the season, if there are left over funds, the manager/treasurer will provide credits where applicable.

Donations and Fundraising: Since Classics Basketball is a 501(c)3 non-profit organization, a donation letter is available from the president for any donations or fundraising activities an individual or team pursues to help offset team and/or individual player costs. Classics Basketball also participates in the escrip.com fundraising program and registered users who select Classics Basketball as the charitable organization will have small percentages of their online purchases at the escrip.com online mall and other associated businesses to be credited to Classics Basketball and ultimately to support their team. As a 501(c)3 non-profit organization, the Club does pursue sponsorships and funding from organizations and individuals. There is a Donors/Sponsor page on our website with more information. This charitable giving is used to provide individual scholarship based on financial need, support teams where needed for travel and national tournament entry fees and costs, and establish a stock of tournament uniforms for the rental option.

What CLASSICS Basketball Can Do For Young Athletes:

Girls and boys who play basketball at this select AAU level will improve their own skill level through coaching, practice and competition. Girls and boys who develop their ability through CLASSICS become the leading players on their high school teams. Through our program, we intend to develop not only basketball skills, but also individual character, morals, and physical and mental fitness. We support our coaches and parents in the development of important lifelong core values of teamwork, sportsmanship, leadership, personal discipline, time management, honesty, and respect.

Recent Teams Accomplishments: Classics teams have performed at a top caliber in regional and national championships. A listing of team accomplishments since the year 2000 follows:
